

Bosch battery charger solid red light

Why does my Bosch charger have a red light?

Whenever you notice the red solid light on your Bosch charger, just set the battery away in a ventilated room. Keeping the battery safe in a normal climate for a few hours will eventually reset it to normal temperatures. After that, it will be safe to put on charge again, and the red light should go away.

What does a red light on a Bosch battery mean?

This is especially true of the alarming red light. A continuous red light on your Bosch battery charger means the battery is likely too hot, putting it out of charging range. If this happens, don't toss the battery and rush out to buy a new one, as the red light doesn't necessarily mean the battery is shot.

What does a green light on a Bosch Charger mean?

Whenever users plug their battery into a Bosch charger, they'll be greeted with a green light flashing over and over. This is the most common light on the charger. It's the one that tells users that their battery is currently charging normally. Whenever you see the light alternating between dim and green like in this photo, it's a good sign.

Why is my Bosch battery charger flashing green?

The indicator light on a Bosch battery charger will let you know exactly what's happening with the device and if it's flashing green, the battery's charged and you're good to go. If you're not getting a green light or a red light, then it may be due to user error.

What color are Bosch battery charger lights?

Bosch battery chargers feature multiple lights of varying colors that indicate different statuses. Having a good understanding of the color of your Bosch battery charger's lights can make it easier for you to diagnose and troubleshoot any issues you may be experiencing. Green Light
