

Point force storage

How do I create a new storage location in Forcepoint security manager?

Log into the Forcepoint Security Manager. Navigate to Data > Settings > General > Archive Storage. Select Store archive remotely. Select Name new storage location and enter the connection information for the storage location. (The setting Use existing storage location is used for switching to previously defined locations)

How do I create a new archiving folder in Forcepoint security management?

Create an new folder that is reachable from the Forcepoint Security Management server. Log into the Forcepoint Security Manager. Navigate to Data > Settings > General > Archive Storage. Select Store archive remotely. Select Name new storage location and enter the connection information for the storage location.

Where are Forensics stored in Forcepoint DLP?

The properties of the event are stored in the SQL database [wbsn-data-security]and the forensics are sent to the Forensics Repository. The Forensics Repository is a folder that is located in the installation folder for Forcepoint DLP. For example: "C:\Program Files (x86)\ Websense\Data Security\forensics_repository".

What is the grid point force balance table?

The Grid Point Force Balance table is the data around which all FBD-Forces and Resultant Force and Moment utility calculations are performed. See the OptiStruct online reference guide for more information regarding GPFORCE option cards. Figure 1. Sample Model used to Demonstrate Grid Point Force Calculations.

Contact us for free full report

Web: <https://solarcomplete.co.za/contact-us/>

Email: energystorage2000@gmail.com

WhatsApp: 8613816583346

Point force storage

